International Congress of Historic Botanical Gardens

Lisbon, Portugal, 11 - 12 October 2021

INSTITUTO NACIONAL DE HISTÓRIA NATURAL e DA CIÊNCIA

with History

- Over recent years, there has been a renewed interest in the care and value of historic botanical gardens – those with built heritage, historical collections, or historical connections. Such gardens have made a major contribution to our understanding of the origin and development of botanical science, and to related disciplines such as herbal medicine, ethnobotany and ethnopharmacology. They have also influenced many of the crops we grow, the food we eat and the trees, shrubs and herbs that adorn our streets, parks, and gardens.

- However, unless prompt action is taken, many of these unique resources risk falling into neglect, decay or in some cases total loss. This is already happening in many places, and it is timely to celebrate and protect the treasures held in these historic botanic gardens. The 1st International Congress of Historic Botanical Gardens will be held in Lisbon, 11-12 October 2021. In the second year of the great pandemic that conditioned our activity, we will meet in person, safely, or virtually, with the perks of those who may be present.

- We dedicate this congress to Vernon Heywood, an intense and passionate life for Botany and Conservation of Biodiversity.

- The Congress will be held at the Museu Nacional de História Natural e da Ciência/Museus da Universidade de Lisboa (MUHNAC/MULisboa)
- The National Museum of Natural History and Science (MUHNAC) is the largest and most important museum of the University of Lisbon. It includes the Lisbon Botanic Garden (19th century), the Laboratório Chimico (19th century), the Astronomical Observatory of the Lisbon Polytechnic School (19th century), the Ajuda Astronomical Observatory (19th century) and the collections of the Tropical Research Institute (IICT) and the Tropical Botanic Garden (early 20th century), apart from diverse collections of natural history, history of science and medicine, biobanks (seeds, audio and DNA/tissues), scientific illustrations and drawings, photography, cartography, institutional history and one of the largest scientific historical archives in Portugal. MUHNAC is the leader of PRISC, the Portuguese Infrastructure of Scientific Collections, included in the national roadmap of strategic research infrastructures.
